

Whom Have I In Heaven

I have learned in the darkest night
Nothing compares to holding tight
To the one who turns my dark to light
And brings assurance to my life

You call me out into the raging seas
But You'll always go before me
To show Your sovereignty so I believe
And build my faith on what I cannot see

Whom have I in heaven?
Whom have I in heaven?
Whom have I in heaven but You?
Whom have I on this earth but You?

There's no more striving for acceptance
No more hiding, no more distance
You died so I could know Your presence
You've shown You're merciful and gracious

Whom have I in heaven?
Whom have I in heaven?
Whom have I in heaven but You?
Whom have I on this earth but You?

There's none more precious than my Saviour
King, my Lord and my Creator
He's kind in deed and in nature
My strength and my portion forever
